CAR IN A SHOWER OF PICKLES.

Motorman Charles S. Lodge, of the Third avenue, New York, surface road encountered a pickle bombardment on Saturday and he doesn't think he will easily forget it. Lodge was skilfully convoying a combination car toward Harlem when a large truck filled with pickle kegs turned into Third avenue from Seventy-ninth street and headed north in front of him. Lodge jangled the gong after the manner of an intel-ligent and skilful mortorman, but Joe Cohen, who drove the truck, paid no attention. Cohen, with John Taona-baum, makes pickles at 2028 First avenue, and being a manufacturer he takes his time obeying car gongs.

When Cohen was good and ready he veered to port out of the way of the car, but he was a wee bit too late. The car pinioned his truck between its front platform and an elevated railroad pillar. A moment later Cohen was lying on the pavement and he thought he was drowning. Brine from the broken pickle kegs showered down from above and drenched him. The into the car and among the passengers, slid under the truck, bombarded the scared horses and covered the limp body of the unfortunate Cohen, who lay scuseless in a pool of brine. When a
